WAILUKU, MAUI, H. T., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1910

NUMBER 31

Who's Who In Politics

Plenty Candidates in Both Parties to Fill the Elective Offices.

The Democrats will hold their county convention in the Wailuku Town Hall, Wednesday next, Sept. 21st, and as far as can be ascertained at present their county ticket will be:

County Sheriff, H. C. Mossman; County Supervisors, Molokai, E. K. Duvauchelle, Paia Naki or O. Toljelson; Lahaina, Geo. Kauh; Wailuku, T. B. Lyons; Makawao, not named; Hana, J. W. Halemano or J. Ahuli.

The Democrats will, it is said, nominate a County Auditor, a County Clerk, a County Treasurer, and a Supervisor for the Makawao district, but do not claim to have any available man for County Attorney.

For the legislative ticket the Democrats will choose their nominees for the lower house from among these men: J. Hihio, R. J. K. Nawahine, A. B. Naone, L. Bennet Keahi, Antone Do Rego, Sam. Kula and Noa Kamakau. From the district of Hana G. W. P. Kaimakaole will be a probable candidate, although neither Home Rulers nor Democrats are anxious to have him climb up to a place on their ticket. The idea among the untried is that Kaimakaole is a poor stick and not much of a vote getter, and if allowed to get on the ticket at all he will be carried as so much ballast to be dumped overboard whenever it becomes necessary to trim ship.

For Senator the Home Rule wing of the fusionists is for C. L. Kookoo, but another faction wants to leave the senatorial nomination open for later developments, and still another faction claim to have a dark horse in training to be brought into the field at the proper psychological moment.

Since the Honolulu papers published the statement that Link McCandless has started a Democratic campaign fund with a $10,000 donation, a number of leading non-descripts who had begun to despair over the party's chances of success this year have changed their tone. A few of the forehanded ones hurried over to Honolulu to see for themselves if the good news be true, and a number of them are pointing their noses expectantly at Link's barrel.

Mr. J. M. Vivas has been approached to run for the lower house but has not yet given his consent at this writing.

The Republicans have an over supply of candidates to choose from. All of the present county officers, including county supervisors are slated for renomination, with the chances in favor of the slate going through the convention unbroken unless something unforeseen turns up.

Charles Lake, the captain of police, is being urged to run for county supervisor from Wailuku. He would be a hard man to beat. Wm. Henning will probably be the nominee from Lahaina.

For senator the Republicans are as good as pledged to nominate a man from Lahaina, and Hon. Philip Pali, the "Military Governor of Maui," is the present man on whom the hearts of the Lahainaites are set. But Coelho's friends claim Coelho as an Independent candidate can get more votes at the polls.

For the lower house, the aspirants are coming out of the woods as fast as they can make themselves

Champion Mean Man

He Gets Off WITH a Small Fine On Account of His Family.

Monday last a peculiarly mean petty larceny case received the attention of the Wailuku district magistrate, that of Joe Medeiros accused of stealing grain from the H. C. & S. Co's stables at Camp One. The way he did it was to enter the stable after the Chinese stableman had put grain in the mangers for the plantation horses, empty the stuff into a bag and take the plunder home for his own use.

For a number of times the stableman was puzzled to find the manger of several stalls empty and the horses standing by as hungry as if they never had their grain.

To solve the mystery the stableman kept a lookout for the unknown thief but without success until last Saturday evening when Joe Medeiros was observed leaving the stables with a third of a sack full of grain. He was followed to his house and was later arrested and charged with petty larceny.

From the fact that he stole the grain from under the noses of hungry horses his offenses is conceded to be the meanest petty offense ever noted in the annals of the district court of Wailuku.

Joe Medeiros was arraigned before Judge Crockett Monday last and plead guilty to the charge, claiming that was the very first time he had picked up some loose grain lying about the stables, while his accusers were morally certain that it was not the first time.

From the fact that the offender had a family dependent on him for support the prosecution asked for leniency and the court let him off with a fifteen dollars fine, otherwise a jail sentence would have been too light for a man who is so mean as to steal a dumb brute's supper from under the animal's nose. Besides the court fine the plantation fired Medeiros from his job.

Noa W. Aluli, J. K. Kahookale and Moses Kauhimahe are among the latest from Wailuku district.

Mr. E. A. Peck of Hamakua is also in the hands of his friends.

In the case of Mr. Aluli, formerly deputy attorney for Hawaii County some feeling has developed over the ruling made by Attorney-General Lindsay that Aluli is eligible to run for the house from Maui, while the very accommodating Mr. Lindsay rules that Mr. Heen, deputy county attorney of Hawaii cannot run for county office in that county! However, there may be some fine legal points differentiating one case from the other which will develop on a closer study of the points involved.

Just to show there is no need of splitting hairs over fine points to get an acceptable candidate, and there is no lack of home material to select from, J. K. Kahookale, the well known surveyor and real estate broker of Wailuku has announced himself as a candidate for nomination. Mr. Kahookale declares himself to be a stand pat Republican.

Moses Kauhimahe, the Kahului school teacher, has also put himself in the hands of his friends, and will accept the nomination to the lower house if his friends are looking for a man. Meanwhile the delegates who have seats in the Republican County Convention are wondering what will their friends think of them after the Convention is over.

Makawao News Notes

The Source of Supply for New Water Works a Beauty Spot.

(By Our Makawao Correspondent.)

The source of water supply for the Kula-Makawao Water Works is Waikamoe gulch, four miles through the forest from "Idlewild" is about the same elevation as Olinda or Idlewild. This gulch has already been tunneled and a dam will soon be constructed to conserve the water.

During the past year Engineer F. E. Harvey has built an excellent horse-trail to this water-head bridging 45 to 50 small gulches along the way. The scenery adjoining this new roadway is most beautiful, the forest consisting of thick ferns, ohia, koa, and other Hawaiian vegetation. The maile vine is noted here and there and what is unusual is the profusion of blackberry plants shooting up all along the pathway. Several small streams forming tiny waterfalls over and through fern-covered rocks are especially pleasing.

Five miles beyond Waikamoe is the famous Honomanu valley and it is possible, should the water supply of Waikamoe prove inadequate (a contingency not at present anticipated), that the pipe line and trail as well will be extended to Honomanu.

If this should ever happen, the nine-mile ride through the forest from Idlewild to Honomanu via Waikamoe will be one of the chief scenic attractions of the island.

During last month (August) more visitors have viewed the grandeur of Haleakala's crater than the whole year preceding.

Mrs. F. E. Harvey and two children who have been at the Olinda camp through the summer departed for their Honolulu home on the 9th.

Some of the new teachers recently appointed to Makawao district are as follows: At Hamakua school, Miss R. Roberts of San Jose and Miss Marion Austin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Austin of Kohala; at the Paia private school Mrs. W. Gray (Miss Haas) who was recently married in Honolulu; at Maunaloa Seminary, Miss Estelle Balcom of Southern California, who is a sister of Miss Irene Balcom, the music teacher of the school; and at Kaupakalua school, Mrs. Fawcett.

The September meeting of the Makawao Literary Society will be held at the residence of H. A. Baldwin of Hamakua, Saturday evening, the 17th.

Last week Tuesday, L. von Tempisky, manager of Haleakala Ranch, returned from a trip to the coast. He placed his two daughters and niece in Miss Head's school in Berkeley and attended the annual roping contest at Cheyenne.

Mrs. Dora von Tempisky of Makawao has recently become a temporary resident of Berkeley. Her daughter is attending Miss Head's school and her son has recently entered the high school there.

On Tuesday, Misses Alice Cooper and Agnes Wickstrum of Honolulu left Maui per Claudine for Kilauea. While visiting Maui they have been the guests of Mrs. J. S. Aiken of Kahului and have made the ascent of Haleakala and a visit to beautiful Iao.

Miss Irene B. Aiken of Kahului is making a visit to Manila.

Russians and Wood Alcohol

A Combination That Does Not Work
Out Satisfactorily.

Tuesday evening, the Russian colony at Kahului, not content with the ordinary activities and excitement of the town, started something on their own account. Heretofore when in need of excitement the Russians have been content to drink whisky and gin, but these light beverages were not to their liking, so they acquired some wood alcohol and proceeded to make merry.

The party consisted of two women and one man, and the man is reported to have refused a second drink of the alcohol, saying it was too hot, but not so the women. The first drink to them was only an appetizer, and they got away with a quart of the poison, before it began to get in its deadly work. Just how long the debauch lasted is not known, but the women were found unconscious, one dead, and the other in a very precarious condition. The one who was living was rushed to the hospital, but died after several hours of suffering. The Sheriff was immediately summoned, and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from poison caused by excessive drinking of Wood Alcohol.

Advertising for Maui.

The Daily Advertiser of Honolulu has had one of their brilliant special correspondents circulating through Maui for the past month in the person of H. M. Ayers. Mr. Ayers has written some very graphic accounts of the unfrequented parts of the Valley, and it no doubt has proved spicing reading for the favored few who receive the morning paper over on this side of the channel. That Mr. Ayers had a hilarious time entertaining and being entertained goes without saying. The past week just before leaving Wailuku for the metropolis, he resolved to tie him to the winery at Kaupakalua, and discover, if possible the secret of wine making. After the manner of his Japanese friends, he resolved to buy a gallon of the wine, in order that he might duplicate the brand for home consumption. Ayers guarded his gallon of wine faithfully till he saw it safely landed in his hotel. After carefully locking his door Ayers sat down to contemplate the fortune he saw in sight manufacturing wine. No more newspaper work; no more horse medicine, but wine, wine everywhere. In his enthusiasm he had neglected to taste the precious stuff, so now he stealthily uncorked the demijohn, and placing it to his lips, he drank long and deep. To his dismay he discovered it to be an excellent brand of vinegar. Gone was the dream of wealth; gone was the picture of future greatness; gone was Ayers.
